FIFTH COLUMN CHARGE HURLED AT TOP NAZIS

Declare Von Papen, Seyss-Inquart Paved Way for Hitler's Austrian Putsch.

BERNBERG, Nov. 23—Franz von Papen and Arthur Seyss-Inquart, two of the top Nazi leaders, before an international tribunal, were declared guilty of having paved the way for the Nazi plot to seize Austria, the court ruled today. The court also found that the two leaders had not acted in self-defense, but had acted in concert with Hitler.

The court, which was held in the city of Bern, Switzerland, found that the two leaders had acted in concert with Hitler to seize Austria. The court also found that the two leaders had acted in concert with Hitler to seize Austria.

Victory Loan Train Coming Tomorrow

SCHOOL PUPILS WILL SEE VICTORY TRAIN

Closing Plans Made in Public, Parochial Buildings.

Pupils in Marion public and parochial schools will be given an opportunity to see the Victory Loan train Thursday forenoon. Rev. Father William J. Spickerman said today that St. Mary's pupils will be dismissed for the entire day.

In the public school, Supt. E. E. Holt has worked out a staggered schedule of visits for the junior and senior high schools, which will close for part of Thursday forenoon. Elementary pupils in the public schools will be dismissed to visit the display only if a parent calls at the school for them.

Edison and Vernon pupils will visit the train before reporting to school Thursday morning. The pupils will return to school in time for the opening of classes at 10:15 a. m.

Central Junior and Harding pupils will first report for classes and will be dismissed later in the morning. Central pupils will go at 9:45 a. m. and Harding pupils at 10:15 a. m. They will not report back to school until the end of the noon period.

Cecil W. Gabler, in charge of the school bond sale now in progress, said the train visits would not interfere with Thursday's sale in the schools. At Harding and Central the bond sale will be held before classes are dismissed for the train visit. At Edison and Vernon the sale will be held after pupils report back for classes at 10:15 a. m.

Arrangements for pupils to visit the train were made at the request of the U. S. treasury department.

School Pupils' Victory Bond Sale Gets Under Way Today

Sale of $60,000 in E bonds is the goal of Marion public and parochial school pupils as they launched their part in the Victory Loan campaign today.

The pupils are making the only intensive campaign of the eighth war loan for the sale of E bonds.

Today and Thursday the sale is being conducted in the schools. Next Monday and Tuesday the pupils will make a citywide canvass to carry the campaign into every Marion home.

Today's and Thursday's sale is among pupils, their parents and neighbors.

All Have Supplies
Every pupil in the city has been given mimeographed bond application forms. These are to be turned into the schools where teachers, P. T. A. members and pupils will be on hand to collect money for the bonds and make out the official application forms for the mimeograph sheets.

The applications will be turned over to the Marion banks, where the bonds will be written and sent back to the proper school. Pupils then will deliver the bonds to the purchasers.

MARSHALL TO FILL HURLEY'S POST IN CHINA

Called After Ambassador Quits in Huff at U. S. Far East Policy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—President Truman today called on his most lavishly praised wartime lieutenant, General of the Army George C. Marshall, to step into the world's No. 1 postwar trouble spot—China.

Amid signs of increasing American concern over the civil war in that country, Mr. Truman quickly followed Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley's spectacular resignation as ambassador yesterday by calling Marshall from his week-old retirement.

The former Army chief of staff will become special envoy to China as a temporary replacement to Hurley, who caught both the President and Secretary of State Byrnes by surprise.

Gen. Marshall received an initial fill-in today on what President Truman expects of him as special White House ambassador to China. Afterward, a presidential aide said the general would leave for Chungking "as soon as possible."

The retired Army chief of staff spent an hour in the President's study during the afternoon. General Marshall used a side door and avoided newsmen.

Marshall drove over from his home at Leesburg, Va., to talk over his new job with the President and with Secretary of State Byrnes.

Names Two Diplomats
Hurley, in stepping out of his Chungking assignment, made charges that some "professional" diplomats in the U. S. foreign service had nullified announced American policy.

Byrnes told a news conference today Hurley had complained to him about the reports of only two American diplomats while Hurley was ambassador to China.

Byrnes named these two men as George Acheson Jr., now adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and John S. Service, now an assistant to Acheson in Japan.

By selecting a five-star general, Mr. Truman appeared to be emphasizing again the viewpoint that the present top job in China remains the disarming of Japanese troops.

Both the war and state departments have repeated in recent weeks that United States troops are in northern China only to facilitate the surrender of Japanese forces.

Long Criticized
However American policy toward China had been under critical review before Hurley's resignation because of the danger U. S. troops might become actively involved in the fight between Chinese government and Chinese Communist armies.

Undersecretary of the Navy Arthur M. Gurnea, due in Washington momentarily from the Far East, he told reporters he would "make specific recommendations which may affect United States policy in China."

Edwin A. Locke, personal representative of the President, also is en route by plane from Chungking after touring China for the last two months on an economic mission.

Marshall served several tours of duty in China and attended several Anglo-American-Chinese conferences during the war. Hurley followed up his earlier statement with two proposals.

That the state department issue a public statement of policy toward China.

That the United States issue a "positive statement" that it intends to "stabilize China until the United Nations Organization can take over that responsibility."

Mr. Marshall's mission to China is a "positive statement" that it intends to "stabilize China until the United Nations Organization can take over that responsibility."

U. S. ACTED IN TOKYO BEFORE PEARL HARBOR

Diplomat Tells Probers of Destruction of Secret Papers Prior to Attack.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew testified today some codes used by the American embassy in Tokyo were destroyed before war broke out Dec. 7, 1941.

And some were not destroyed until after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor on that date, he told the senate-house committee investigating the disaster.

The inquiry also brought a brief flurry over a suggestion by Senator Brewster (R-Me.) that committee counsel be permitted to go through Grew's personal diary in search of items that perhaps should be studied.

Grew told of the destruction of the codes after Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) asked him: "Do you remember when you got word to destroy codes in the embassy at Tokyo?"

Will Quit Marshall
Senator George (D-Ga.) predicted the investigators "will want to call General Marshall as a 'witness' before he goes to China."

George told a reporter he thought it important to hear the testimony of the former Army chief of staff "right away." Marshall has been appointed a special envoy to China.

An Army board which investigated the surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, took especial note of the way a final warning message from Marshall to General Walter C. Short, Army commander in Hawaii, was handled.

The board said that while Marshall telephoned an alert to General Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines, he sent a similar message to Short by commercial cable. It was not delivered until three hours after the attack.

Hull Knew
Former Secretary of State Hull was excused from testifying today because of cold, rainy weather.

Rep. Murphy (D-Pa.) said today he plans to ask Cordell Hull specifically whether the former secretary of state received information from any source Dec. 6 or 7, 1941 that the Japanese were planning the Pearl Harbor attack.

Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and former under-secretary of state, yesterday told of a meeting with Prince Fumimaro Konoye, on Sept. 6, 1941, in which the then Japanese premier urged the ambassador to arrange a meeting for him with President Roosevelt. The meeting never was held.

Ferguson told newsmen he had no opinion either way whether the proposed meeting would have prevented war.

Grew testified he and Konoye changed the location of their meeting and meeting at the home of a mutual friend in Tokyo to avoid detection by the Japanese military extremists.

Predicted Fall
Konoye told him, Grew said, that if a meeting with Mr. Roosevelt could not be arranged, the Konoye government would fall and be replaced by a military regime. Grew managed Washington that Konoye's downfall would bring about "the formation of a military dictatorship lacking either the disposition or temperament to avoid continuing hostilities with the United States."

Konoye was succeeded as premier by Gen. Hideki Tojo, who served during most of the war.

GM Leaders Absent at Parley Called by U. S. in Auto Strike

The government takes a hand in settling the General Motors wage dispute at a meeting with CIO Auto Workers officials in Washington today, but company representatives won't be there.

GM President Charles E. Wilson said he couldn't leave Detroit "on account of the strike situation."

Top officials of the striking CIO United Automobile Workers left Detroit by plane this morning for Washington and conference later in the day with Edgar L. Warren, chief labor department conciliator.

Wilson said late yesterday, however, that he and other corporate executives could not confer with Warren for several days at least.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach had announced earlier that representatives of both parties had assured Warren of their intention to confer with him today.

Wilson said he told Warren by phone that because of the strike he would be unable to attend the national labor-management conference in the capital this week. Warren had planned to confer with company and union heads separately.

Reuther Is Angered
Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president who has led the fight for a 30 per cent wage increase for GM workers, added: "How long can an official of a corporation controlling the welfare of millions of Americans continue to thumb his nose at his responsibility?"

Last night 600 CIO pickets who for more than 15 hours had "imprisoned" 65 supervisory employees at a GM plant in Saginaw, Mich., dispersed after an appeal by the union's regional director. A dispute over paying the strikers' cost of their wages ended the day in calm, the plant in a state of quietude, with no sign of a strike.

Flu Floors Army's Tucker, Team Gets Case of Jitters

By The Associated Press
WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 23—It took a slight case of influenza to show how highly Army regards Arnold Tucker, the Cadets' field general and chief passer.

Overlooked in the attention focused on the West Pointers' touchdown twins—Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard—Tucker, key man of the Cadets' polished T machine, was the cause of much anxiety yesterday when he was hospitalized with the flu.

To Be Out Soon

When his temperature soared to 102 it looked like the 21-year-old Miami, Fla., quarter might miss the big game with the Navy in Philadelphia Saturday. But late in the afternoon the team physician reported Tucker's temperature had gone down and that the grid star would be released from the hospital by Thursday at the latest.

Tucker, a third stringer behind Doug Kenna and Tom Lombardo last year, has come along so fast this season Coach Earl Blaik rates him above the graduated pair.

"The rest of the team can't operate if he doesn't operate," Blaik declared. "He is by far the best man under center we have had here. He has done a magnificent job. He passes well, he's a good runner, a good tackler and a good blocker."

With Davis sweeping the ends and Blanchard blasting through the middle, Army hasn't had to do much passing this season. However, the records show Tucker has done most of the passing and the team's completion mark is well over 500.

Waterhouse in Charge
While Tucker was out yesterday, Dick Waterhouse, the extra point specialist and second string quarterback, ran the varsity through a rugged scrimmage against the reserves.

President Truman will be on hand for the game Saturday. He will sit on the Army side during the first half with War Secretary Patterson and Major General Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent of the Military Academy, and on the Navy side in the second half with Navy Secretary Forrestal and Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, superintendent of the Naval Academy.

Navy's Bill Dickey, Back in U. S. Again, To Give Up Playing

By The Associated Press
MEMPHIS, Nov. 23—Bill Dickey, who has been in the U. S. for a couple of months, says he probably won't replace them with the familiar mask and shin guards.

At 38, the veteran catcher of the New York Yankees is planning to retire from active play.

"I haven't made any plans yet," the drawl-voiced Dickey said today, "but I doubt that I'll do any more catching."

"I haven't played any baseball in two years, you know, and that's a long lay-off for an old guy like me."

Dickey had returned to the States after serving 15 months as athletic director of the naval program at Pearl Harbor. He has been assigned to the athletic department at the Naval Air Station here, pending a discharge expected around the first of the year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—Horace Hendrickson, Penn. backfield coach who saw boys pummeled by both service teams, sums up the Army-Navy prospects this way: "I'm not going on record as saying the Army team is the best I've ever seen—but I've never seen better." And Columbia's Lou Little puts it this way: "The best way to play Army would be to use a bulldozer on offense and an atomic bomb on defense, and I'd still be pessimistic."

RED CROSS PLANS FIRST AID COURSE

15-Hour Instruction Program
 Set for Dec. 3-7.

A first aid 15-hour instruction course, arranged by the Marion County Red Cross Chapter, will be conducted here Dec. 3-7. Three-hour classes will be held each evening at 7 o'clock with the first one conducted in the Red Cross office at 133 West Center street.

Instructor for the course is Alford C. Hardy, a special field representative of first aid, accident prevention, and water safety for the Eastern Area. The lessons will be open to anyone who has had the advanced course in first aid and to anyone who wants to review their instruction course.

A new first aid textbook has been published by the American Red Cross for this course. It is based largely upon wartime experience and advances in medical science and has been prepared by members of the committee on surgery, division of medical sciences, national research council, in collaboration with other doctors as well as members of the Red Cross staff.

The book deals with first aid care in cases of shock, burns, wounds and fractures. A portion of the text deals with the human body structure, roller bandaging, snake bites and eye injuries.

This first aid course will stress prevention of accidents as well as the knowledge and skill essential to emergency care of the injured. Walter L. Baker is first aid committee chairman of the local chapter.

Penicillin Fails To

Halt Ohio V-D Rate

By The Associated Press
 COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.—Despite the discovery of "an almost perfect treatment," the two major venereal diseases—syphilis and gonorrhea—have shown reported increases of better than 65 per cent in the state in the last five years, the Ohio welfare conference's 33th annual convention was told today. In a speech prepared for the convention's closing session, Dr. J. D. Porterfield, chairman of the venereal disease control division of the state health department, blamed the hike on "increased promiscuity."

Dr. Porterfield called penicillin "an almost perfect treatment" for the two diseases.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact sources of formation without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Army Solves Love Triangle, but Wife Will Never Know

By MAL BOYLE
AP Feature Writer
SHANGHAI — Somewhere in America there is a wife who never will know how much she owes to her husband's commanding officer.

This is a true story, so far as anyone is concerned. The husband was a sergeant — which he was not.

The story goes back almost to the beginning of the late war. The sergeant had a lower rank then.

He had been married only a short time, and was a sad and sorry guy when his ship steamed out of the Golden Gate more than three years ago.

There followed three years of change and change, three years of life among strange people and strange ways.

At last the sergeant was eligible for discharge on points, but as he waited through the last days of his release he showed none of the jubilation of other soldiers.

His outfit who also were almost through with drill and khaki.

"I guess I've got putty in my head instead of brains," he told a tent-mate, "but I don't know where I want to go."

The friend pointed to the picture of a beautiful dark-haired girl on a packing case that served as a table beside the sergeant's cot and replied, "You must have putty in your head if you don't want to go home to a wife like that."

"That's the trouble," said the sergeant. "She's not my wife."

Tell the Sad Story
Holding his head in his hands, he explained:

"I met her in Australia. It didn't happen all at once. You know how the Australians treated us when we first went there. Nothing too good for us, nothing they wouldn't do for us."

"I met her at a dance and took her home. She introduced me to her parents. I was pretty lonesome, and I guess they were too, for they had a boy in the middle east. They took me into the family, and before I knew it, the girl and I were liking each other better than we had a right to do."

"I don't know just how it happened. I used to tell them all about my wife in the states and I never thought anybody could take her place, but I guess I was in Australia too long."

"I thought it would be all over when we left there, but it was worse. When I got to New Guinea I worried myself sick thinking about what I ought to do. I was in love with both girls."

"I lost weight and wound up in a hospital. They sent me back to Australia to rest. I had malaria, but that wasn't really the trouble. I saw the girl again. She came to the hospital all the time and I really was in a tangle. And yet I loved my wife and still do."

Now I'm in a fix. I never wrote my wife about the other girl, so I can't tell her now, and I don't know whether to go home or go to Australia and try to arrange a divorce from there. It's running me nuts.

"As long as I've been in the Army I haven't had to make up my mind, but I'm getting out now and I do have to make up my mind. I don't know how."

Somewhat the word of his predicament got around, and one day the sergeant was called before his commanding officer.

"Sergeant," he said, without preliminaries of any sort, "I have a little job for you. We have some classified material we are sending back to the states. I want you to take it back. It will be your last Army assignment. The plane leaves tomorrow and you will be discharged soon after you arrive."

The sergeant looked bewildered, but managed to reply, "Yes, sir."

At the tent flap he paused, turned slowly and added, "Thank you, sir."

When the sergeant caught the plane for home next day, there was a happy grin on his face.

Hitler Rated Divine Messenger of God by English 'Legion'

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Nov. 28 — London newspapers headlined today reports that an organization known as the Legion of Christian Reformers said to regard Adolf Hitler as a divine instrument sent by God to judge the world. The news stories followed an auction yesterday of a huge granite bust of Hitler and Nazi flags from the former German embassy in London which was marked by spirited bidding. Offers on the bust started at "two bob" (40 cents). Capt. R. Gordon-Canning, former member of the British Union of Fascists, immediately snapped "ten pounds" ($40) and, after counter bidding, purchased the granite head for 1500 ($2,000). Also present at the sale was a man identifying himself as J. L. Battersy, general secretary of the Legion of Christian Reformers, who said: "We in the legion regard Hitler as a divine instrument to break the power of the Mammon system." He added that the legion was "absolutely non-political" and said Hitler was most definitely sent by God to judge the world. Another man gave his name as G. T. R. Merriman, purchased two Nazi flags and told the press, "Hitler was preparing the work of judgment. I hope to God it hurries up."

A Great Record of Wartime Service

ANNOUNCEMENT that the Marion Canteen for Service Men and Women will cease operations next Friday provides occasion for words of praise for the several hundred women who made up the working personnel of this wartime agency, one of the most efficient and valuable of this community's home front organizations. This does not mean that praise has been lacking during the time of the Canteen's several years of operation, for there has been nothing but praise from the beginning. And it has come not just from people of Marion and vicinity, but from travelers whose homes are in all sections of the country, most of them the virtually countless service men and women whose journeys have been brightened by food, reading material and other gifts distributed by the Canteen women on duty day and night at the Union Station.

The result is that the Canteen not only performed a great work for the young men and women wearing the uniforms of their nation's military forces, but in doing so has also made a most valuable contribution to Marion's prestige throughout the country. For many years thousands of the service men and women who received Canteen gifts during their brief stays aboard trains here will remember Marion thankfully and cordially and no doubt will make known their pleasant recollections to other persons. Goodwill of that sort, spread throughout the land, could not be acquired through any other type of achievement or any form of advertising. Based on good deeds to strangers in our midst and at a time when those strangers were most in need of friendly ministrations to cheer them on their way, the goodwill resulting from the Canteen women's work has lasting and heartfelt qualities which no other means or circumstances could create.

No other wartime agency here at home received a greater measure of support from the community than did the Canteen. We can recall no request for contributions that failed to bring immediate and adequate response. In addition, numerous organizations and individuals contributed regularly to maintenance of the Canteen service, virtually all doing this without solicitation. That public cooperation and support was, of course, primarily an expression of Marion's patriotic spirit and loyalty to the nation's service forces and the cause they represented. At the same time it was an expression of hearty support of the Canteen women's work and approval of the way they were doing it.

And now, with the Canteen's mission near its close, people of Marion join unanimously in voicing words of applause and thanks for vitally important work well done, words which we will not call final, because the account of what this service agency did will occupy an outstanding place in the permanent record of this community's contribution to the war and victory.

The Shoe on the Other Foot

THE soul-searching that will be done in the United States as the German war guilt trials proceed is one of the reasons the trials are being held.

The same thing will happen in Great Britain, France, Russia and the smaller European nations. The trials are an experiment in jurisprudence.

The purpose is to discover whether there is a majority opinion favorable to the point of view that it has become a crime against humanity to start war.

If the trials do not reflect accurately the people's attitude toward conspirators who plan wars, they will be a farce.

If, on the other hand, they do reflect what people feel about conspirators who start war, the trials will be a milestone in humanity's progress toward an order of society in which international security dures to be more than a vain hope.

The indictment covers vastly more than conspiracy to start war. It includes crimes committed in the prosecution of war and crimes committed against humanity. The slaughter of civilians in occupied countries was not a war crime; it was a methodical and studied reversion to the ugliest brutality of which human beings have been guilty in the span of record history. The atrocities committed by Germans in this category cannot be excused by the exigencies of waging war.

It is obvious, of course, that the German war guilt trials are made possible by Germany's defeat. If Germany had won, there is little doubt but that their conquered enemies would be submitted to similar trials, in an attempt to justify the German cause. This was tried in the case of France, but the result was farcical. The German case did not hold water, because it was obvious that the defendant had assumed the plaintiff's position. But the fact that Germany did try to justify its position—and failed—is the soundest of all reasons for believing that the shoe at Nuremberg is on the right foot and that the guilty are about to receive just punishment for what they know were palpable crimes. Their one hope of getting off without punishment was not to be caught, and in that most of them failed.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

World Diplomacy Becomes Fuddle Game.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—The diplomacy of the world is taking deeper and deeper into what might be called a fuddle game.

It is a game in which the contestants know very well what is being done, but pretend officially they do not. Preposterous pretensions are maintained in the name of the day. The public is left befuddled.

The transparency of the deception develops only when you rub the seat of propaganda from the news glass at this amazing world hour and peer inside the furnished facts.

Consider, for instance, the revolution in Iran. The revolution was started by a crowd calling itself the Democratic party. All the newsprint emanating from the revolution is that which the occupying Russians care to let out. And the picture they left out is that great patriots of liberty are fighting, bleeding and dying for the cause of freedom of their province—sort of like our struggle for freedom from Britain.

This is laughably, grotesquely untrue. The Democratic party is the old Communist party under a new name. They want to call it the party of the masses, but when the Muslims, who monopolize all Iran with their devout ideas of God, worked up a sweeping animus against the agnostic or atheist Communists, the Communists broke off and called themselves Democrats.

Conquest for Russia

Now these great Democrats of Stalin, if successful, would break their province off from Iran and establish the pretense of separate sovereignty while being subject to adjoining Russia.

Stalin could thus work his way further toward the oil, expand his hegemony and push back the Muslims. This is the only freedom they want—to wrest the people from Iran and put them under the thumb of Moscow.

But the revolution is even funnier than that. The Russians occupied this territory during the war to protect a line of supplies from us so Nazi saboteurs could not destroy it. For a long time, it was the only land route we had through which to help Russia. Americans and British occupied the southern half of the route. All agreed not only to resist at the war end, but (at the specific insistence of Mr. Roosevelt) composed a treaty guaranteeing the independence of Iran (meaning its protection against Russia, because Russian domination is what the Muslims feared from a United Nations victory).

We got our comical force out sometime back, leaving only service men, military, and the British, I hear, also removed their fighting men.

The Russians raised some dispute as to when the end of the war officially would be, but finally agreed to March 2 for their withdrawal, which this government, in its new note, has attempted to move up to January 1. The world is thus presented with this ludicrous situation:

A Communist revolution has been going on in a Russian-occupied zone. Presented to the world as a serious revolution, it is actually about the same as if an American revolution broke out in the American occupied zone of Germany, and the pretended aloofness bottled up the territory from the British and Russians, censored and propagandized the movement to let it succeed.

Russia Had Advantage

You see, only a few Iranian troops were in the province to fight the Communists. With the Russians keeping the bulk of other Iranian forces out, the local Communists were permitted to gain foothold. That is the only way they could possibly have made a revolution.

These are the subtleties behind the American note. You may recall advance dispatches indicated Mr. Byrnes would ask Moscow for information about the revolution. That would have been ironical.

We have a consul in the revolution area. The Russians isolated him from communications with our legation in Teheran. We could get nothing from him; although this most suspicious fact was not mentioned in our note.

The note then represents our first and very mild effort to drop this whole false front with which the world is confronted (the condition in Manchuria and Europe is in every way similar). If it sounded vague and its troop-withdrawal plan excessively mild, it nevertheless represented the beginnings of an effort to break the fuddle game.

Unless this beginning is carried forward effectively, genuine understandings of any kind can hardly be anticipated in any way as to restore the world either to peace or sanity. Surely it is evident by now that agreements in a fuddle game are not worth making.

"Genocide" — Race Murder

Label Found for Nazi "Crime Without a Name."

By BRONISLAW MATECKI
(Polish Economics Professor and Government Official)

LONDON — "Crime without name."

That is how Winston Churchill in a broadcast made in 1941, described the terrifying accumulation of well-planned barbarities committed by the Nazis on the living bodies of many a European nation and race.

Britain's war leader, whose unique eloquence tailed him when he searched for a word to convey the suffering of peoples tortured by the German oppressor, finds now the name of this nameless crime in the indictment of the Nazi war leaders—genocide.

Count Three of the indictment reads in part: "...They (the defendants) conducted deliberate and systematic...in order to destroy nationalities and classes of people."

Genocide, the word coined to fit the crime, seems likely not only to play its part in the Nuremberg trials, but may change the aspects of international law in war and in peace.

The creator of the word, Prof. Raphael Lemkin, a noted scholar of international law, formerly a public prosecutor in Poland and now a faculty member of Duke University in North Carolina, says he had no "linguistic ambitions" in writing the name, that he aimed at a legal and humanitarian concept which, if generally accepted, would mitigate mankind's misery.

Why The Name

Genocide has two roots—the Greek "genos," nation or race; the Latin "caedere," a suffix made from "caedere," killing. Put them together and there is genocide—"killing a nation" or "murder of a nation."

In his book, Axis Rule in Occupied Europe (published by the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, Washington, D. C.) Dr. Lemkin writes hitherto-used terms for attacks upon nations as a whole are inadequate.

"Denationalization," he declares, does not convey biological destruction and, in addition, sometimes is used in the sense of deprivation of citizenship. This author finds terms like "Germanization," "Italianization" or "Magyarization," fail to convey physical annihilation and are to be applied only in such special cases where one nation attacks the national pattern of the other.

Genocide, on the other hand, means what it says: A murderous attack upon a nation or a group weaker than the oppressor. It does not necessarily mean the immediate destruction of a nation—except when accomplished by the mass killing of all its members. It is intended rather to imply a coordinated campaign for the destruction of the essential cultural, religious and ethnic groups with the purpose of annihilating the groups themselves.

This genocide was practiced by the Germans upon Jews, Gypsies, Poles, Russians, and other Slavs and, to a lesser extent, upon Frenchmen, Belgians and Luxembourgers.

Genocide Directed Against a Group as an Entity, and the Actions Involved are Directed Against Individuals, Not in Their Individual Capacity, but as Members of such Groups.

Lemkin finds in the Hague Convention a legal basis for the punishment of genocide in war. More important than punishment, however, he declares, is prevention—effective only when impartial investigators are allowed to study the victims' cases.

Further, he advocates prosecution for genocide in peacetime.

World War II, writes the professor, taught that not only minorities but whole nations and races, if weak, may be attacked with a view toward annihilation.

Norway Recovering

By The Associated Press

Five months after her liberation from the Germans Norway is slowly but not at all surely going back to work.

Barriades have been cleared from the streets and other marks of war taken away. Traffic is fairly heavy in Oslo harbor and somehow boats get unloaded. A few factories have started up. But public prosecution of such production and there is no indication of when they will be. Government officials shrug their shoulders and say merely, "It is very difficult to tell."

Crowds of working people mill around the streets, hold community walking marathons, sit and listen to open air band concerts, join in parades. If it not so much that Norway does not want to go back to work it just that she has had no compelling reason to go so and many reasons not to.

Raw materials are impossible to get. There is not enough fuel or power for either factories or ships to work full time. The people were well paid by the Germans and there was so little of money and there is still nothing to buy and during the occupation people formed the habit of doing as little work and accomplishing as near nothing as possible. After liberation they stopped work to celebrate. Then they had to have vacations.

The Quisling trial elections and departure of the American Army were diversions.

Now that the final excuse for postponing work has run out, newspapers congratulate the country on its industry.

Aid for Blind Sought

According to a Washington report, the U. S. Army Signal Corps is working on a "seeing eye" device, using the principles of radar. Reports are that the new device will transmit impulses which will permit the blind to "see" all objects within a radius 20 feet.

How About This?

If you forget some names easily, it may be because you have a grudge against the persons they represent. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, such lapses of memory are often expressions of secret aversions.

Keeping Alive in France

You Can Be Comfortable if You're a Millionaire

By ELISABETH BENNETT
Written for International News Service

PARIS—You can live royally in France today if you are a millionaire. If you can afford five hundred dollars a month for rent and six hundred dollars a week for food, you would find this country as comfortable as home.

But if your income requires a more frugal existence, then you have problems.

You want a new French frigate? A thousand dollars. A new family car? Three thousand dollars. A new living room suite? Fifteen hundred dollars.

A cheaply-made radio costs only $200, but a new vacuum cleaner is priced at $600. A woolen dress is reasonable at $150, and a man's suit costs closer to $750.

Liked Ten Times

Compared to the prices of 1938, when I was last in France, most commodities are just about 10 times more expensive. And even at such astronomical prices, most household furnishings are impossible to obtain.

The middlemen of French industry find it pays better to route their products away from the retailers and into the hands of black-market dealers who will always find customers during an inflation.

The little people of this country know that it will be a year before surpluses and selling competition end such a practice and lower prices.

If you want to come to France—as a tourist or as an immigrant—before that year has passed, you must expect to live primitively. The situation is apparent from the moment you step off the boat onto the docks in war-torn Le Havre. From that moment onward the impression is strengthened.

Still in First Stage

Le Havre is still in the first stage of restoration: debris clearance, the building of temporary shelters for the homeless and the repair of important streets.

The remainder of France, most of it undamaged, has not yet progressed beyond the second stage: restoring the distribution of food and clothing, repairing the links of communication and transportation, and calming the neurosis born during five years of German occupation.

During the next 12 months, for one example, French citizens will be allowed to buy one-fifth of a pair of shoes. It will take more than six months to have a telephone installed in our home.

Newspapers, echoing the general public feeling, cry "scandal," and accuse the government of irresponsibility. But the problem of rehabilitation in France today reaches much more deeply than the government ministries.

Sell Under Counter

In the town of Commales where we have our home, you can glimpse the problem. The storekeepers would rather sell under than over the counter because it brings them more profit. The local administrators are so busy keeping their families fed and clothed and warm by intricate grey-market operations that they have little time left to do their regular work.

Few people in France today are situated comfortably enough to carry on a peacetime job. They have first to think of coal and meat and clothes for their families. Just keeping alive is a full-time job.

Our neighbors spend much of their time these days worrying about how to acquire more coal—their ration for the whole winter is only 900 pounds—and where to find the eighty dollars each black-market ton will cost.

They are not seriously worried, probably, because worry is not part of the French temperament, though they grumble a lot. But their problems, and ours, will surely not decrease until late next spring.

The Once Over

Hirohito Explains All

EMPEROR HIROHITO has returned to his day-day visit to explain the loss of war to his ancestors and apologize for what happened.—News Item.

Hirohito: Oh, ancestors, please bend an ear; I come with my report.

Ancestors: We heard some rumors over here. So make it fast and short.

Hirohito: The plan I had looked pretty good in fact, I thought it great. But now it is well understood 'Twas something that ate.

Ancestors: Come to the point and make it snappy. To pappy, grandpappy and grandpappy.

Hirohito: You want it in one brief big hunk—Our poor old country now is sunk. The Yanks are in my gardens now. They are in everything, and how!

Ancestors: Come to the point and don't be deft—Just tell us, if you will, what's left.

Hirohito: The truth in deep fidelity: There's very little left but ME!

Ancestors: State your excuse for such a rap. You must have one or two on tap.

Hirohito: Quite humbly I come here to say I don't know how we got that way: The plan I had looked crystal clear. And then I landed on my ear!

Ancestors: A better explanation try: We thought the Jap a super guy; On him we had affixed the stamp—"The Kayo Kid," the "Boss," the "Champ."

Hirohito: That was our story, yes, worse luck. And with it, ancestors, we're stuck!

Ancestors: Oh, stay and help us bear the blow: So many things we wish to know.

Hirohito: I'd like to, but alas, alack! I told MacArthur I'd be back.

Ancestors: MacArthur, did you say? Who's he?

Hirohito: Oh, ancestors, quit kidding me!

Ancestors: Stand not and quibble. Do not stall! We want the facts and want 'em all!

Hirohito: Though buried deep where much is dark, You surely must have heard from Mr. He as the boss and ruler, too. And tells me daily what to do; Before I could this visit pay I had to get that guy's O.K.

Ancestors: Enough! And no more words or facts! YOU'D BETTER GET IN HERE WITH US!

Maybe the reason the workers couldn't do the strike take a couple of days was due to the old trouble, no brakes!

The Crack of the Month award goes to a Chapman for his nutshell review of a season's flop "One of the most successful tax laws of the season."

Joe Di Maggio has been signed for the Yanks for next year at $42,500. This seems to be one field where the boss and the talent can get together without any threats, strikes or pacts.

A strange thing happened the other day. The stock market interpreted bad news as good bad news.

Twenty thousand quarts of champagne stowed away by Von Ribbentrop in the cellars of the German embassy in London have been impounded "for entertaining purposes." John Bull with a nod in the direction of the trial of the former wine salesman: "Here's looking at you!"

It Could Only Happen Here

Scene—Front of Paramount theater in Times Square, N. Y. Thousands of bobby-cars recognizing Frankie Sinatra in a flash, set a terrific commotion. On the curb a few news-later one of them gazed at the enormous statue of the Statue of Liberty directly opposite the theater and asks, "Say, who's that?"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Hope that President Truman's labor-management conference could accomplish any of its major objectives dimmed today despite an eleven-hour plea for White House intervention.

Leaders of the three-week-old session charged with setting up machinery to minimize industrial strife acknowledged privately their own machinery was bogged down by disagreement. They said that delegates probably would go into general session tomorrow to consider split recommendations from four of the six subcommittees.

It was reported last night that several conference members and others, including Secretary of Commerce Wallace C. Douglas, W. Taylor, conference secretary, and Fred Smith, conference press officer, had urged White House advisers to persuade the President to step in.

This step came from public officials who may not be quoted by name. These officials said a proposed presidential message was drafted.

Laborites Smart— They Have To Be To Cure England

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

LONDON, Nov. 28.—One finds the opinion widely expressed in England even among conservatives that the big Labor majority in the house of commons is an extremely bright and active body of men and women.

Indeed, I heard it characterized by a Conservative parliamentary expert of great experience as the best-informed house ever elected. It certainly is as active as your columnists' team found yesterday's session.

Mrs. Mac said she was overwhelmed with the Scotch accent. It was pretty thick, for there are a lot of Scotch in the house and we struck a period of questions about Scottish affairs.

I haven't heard so much undiluted Scotch since the days when grandmas used to sing to us youngsters in Gaelic, and grandpa would gather the family about him on their knees and pray in the highland tongue for a solid hour while he instructed the Lord on the affairs of good Presbyterians.

ATTLEE GOVERNMENT

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Winston Churchill protested what he called the "incompetence and feebleness" of the British Labor government today and pledged his conservative opposition to fight for speedy demobilization and reconversion in the American pattern.

Decrying "the plight into which our country has fallen," the former prime minister told the Conservative party's central council, "We are being harassed, harried, tied down and stifled for vaguely and physically unattainable plans for a Socialist future."

Churchill assailed the "theories of Socialism which may destroy Britain far more surely than the magnetic mine."

DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Doubling Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when it gets blocked it fails to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—but something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take these as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it. You get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again.

COL. D. L. HOOPER IN COMMAND OF DEPOT

Succeeds Col. Gano at Marion Engineer Post.

Special to The Star
Col. D. Lee Hooper has assumed command of the Marion Engineer Depot to succeed Col. F. W. Gano, who has been assigned to the division engineer's office, Ohio River Division, at Columbus.

Colonel Hooper came here Nov. 21 from Fort Belvoir, Va., where he commanded group No. 1 of the military training center where trainees are given training.

The new commanding officer of the Marion depot was commissioned in the U. S. army June 16, 1917, and had been in continuous service since that time. He went overseas July 1, 1942, in command of a general service regiment and later in North Africa commanded a general service and combat group with the Fifth army invasion center.

Colonel Hooper's regiment made the invasion with the Fifth army at Salerno and later was ordered to Naples to repair the port there. Mrs. Hooper accompanied Colonel Hooper here. They are living on the post, east of Marion.

Colonel Gano had been in command of the depot since January of this year.

CHARLES B. McVAY, III

CAPTAIN ACCUSED IN SINKING OF CRUISER

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—A public court martial will try Capt. Charles B. McVay III beginning Monday on undisclosed charges concerning the loss of his ship, the heavy cruiser Indianapolis, and 880 men on July 30.

The court will convene at the Navy yard here. Details of the charges will be withheld until they are read to McVay, a Navy department announcement late yesterday said.

The Indianapolis sailed from San Francisco July 16 with a cargo of atomic bomb material for Guam. She was delivered and was returning to the United States when she went down. A Navy communiqué attributed the loss to "enemy action." A later recapitulation of naval losses disclosed a submarine sank the ship off Leyte in the Philippines.

Casualties among the 1,196 on board were 100 per cent—871 missing, five known dead, 316 wounded.

McVay, 47, lives in Washington.

Teacher Says Ohio Political Aspirant Promised Life Fee

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Herberger who identified herself as an instructor in public speaking, filed in supreme court yesterday a $274,500 damage suit against Albert F. Payne, whom she described as an Ohio political aspirant.

Miss Herberger claimed Payne agreed 13 months ago to pay her $10,000 a year for life if she left her job at the Dale Carnegie Institute here and devoted herself to "training and coaching" him in the art of public speaking and acting as his political agent.

Miss Herberger claimed Payne employed her because he was "in great dread and fear of facing and speaking to, and in front of, large audiences."

Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got ERB-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.
